“Green Dentistry; What You Need to Know about Cannabis and Oral Health”

Guest Presenters: Caroline Arceo, DMD and Barry Taylor, DMD

Executive Director, Oregon Dental Assn.

An unbiased and evidence-based presentation of marijuana and its role in dentistry — including an introduction to the history of marijuana, a basic science review regarding the Cannabis plant and the Endocannabinoid System, the oral and general health effects of marijuana use, and areas of possible dental research related to cannabinoids.

Learning Objectives:

- Understand what the Endocannabinoid System is, what cannabinoids are, and how marijuana is connected
- Understand how marijuana affects oral health – specifically with regards to oral pathology, dental caries, and periodontal disease
- Understand how marijuana affects general health and possibly interactions with commonly prescribed medications
- Learn how to communicate with patients regularly using marijuana
- Explore future areas of research with cannabinoids in regard to anxiety, bone metabolism, wound healing, and inflammation.
